SO MANY EMAIL INTRODUCTIONS, SO LITTLE TIME : HOW TO DECIDE AND STAY FOCUSED DURING A BUSY SCHEDULE

Use these worksheet questions to decide whether to accept an unsolicited invite for a meeting. Consider the following additional factors (you can respond to the email asking clarifying questions before accepting):

1. Does this vendor/agent focus more on graduate vs undergraduate recruitment? Are you interested in one of these markets more than the other?
2. Does this vendor/agent work in a region of the world or a market in which you have proven student success or interest?
3. Does this vendor/agent align with your goals and recruitment strategies for this conference?

If the answers are no, politely decline and remember to stay focused on your conference goals!
